Epilepsy or Fits
A SURE CURE for this distressing complaint is now made known in a Treatise (of 48 octavo pages) on Foreign and Native Herbal Preparations, published by Dr. O. PHELPS BROWN. The prescription was discovered by him in such a providential manner that he cannot conscientiously refuse to make it known. Any druggist can procure the ingredients. The ingredients may be obtained from any druggist. A copy sent free to all applicants by mail. Address Dr. O. PHELPS BROWN, 21 Grand street, Jersey City, N. J.

CURE FOR FEMALE WEAKNESS.
The Proprietor of this valuable Medicine, while suffering from loss of health some twenty years ago, received an Indian recipe, from which she prepared same for her own use, which resulted in a cure—Many of her friends have used it with equally gratifying success, and have urged her to introduce it to the public. She has consented, for the relief of suffering humanity, to do so, and feels confident it will prove one of the richest blessings to her sex. It is an internal remedy—entirely vegetable—will not injure the most delicate constitution, but is congenial to nature, as supporters are not used under any consideration, nor the application of Caustic. It will eradicate all humors, which is one cause, in many cases, of great suffering. Its renovating effects are extraordinary, without a change in diet, as hundreds will testify. Three bottles will convince the most skeptical of its surprising properties. Its effects are wonderful in the Relief and Cure of the following diseases: Prolapsus Uteri, Nervous Debility, Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Dyspepsia, Palpitation of Heart, Depression of Spirits, Irregularities, Change of Life, Whites, Dropsical Affections, Biliousness, Inflammation of the Kidneys, &c.
Prepared and sold by Mrs. LINUS BELDEN, Randolph, Mass. Send for circular. Sold by all Druggists, at $1 per bottle.

CAPTAIN TILLER'S COURTSHIP.

[CONCLUDED.]

"As if I would have you!" she burst forth angrily. "A man that walks into my garden suddenly, in his work-day clothes, and without even settin' down, or sayin' a word o' courtin', for decency's sake, tells me I'm no chicken, and asks me downright to arrange for marrying him, just as he'd ask to buy a goose, or a suckling pig for his Sunday dinner!"

"They're a hard set, them widders," he meditated. "I'll give 'em up, I guess, and take a single woman. But I won't buy a young and skittish one, to be a rampaging about while I'm out o' the way. There's Miss Charity Hobson. She's a good manager, and I guess she'd do about as well as any."

He had turned in the direction of Miss Charity's house when he remembered Mrs. Fuller's hint about his clothes. So he went home, put on a gorgeous flowered vest—kept for state occasions—rubbed a handful of hog's lard into his hair, anointed his boots with the same, and set forth with renewed vigor on his wife-hunting expedition.

Miss Charity looked up grimly as he entered her neat kitchen, and placing a chair for him, took another on the opposite side of the room.

It wasn't her custom to receive the visits of single men alone in her house, as she often said.

"Perhaps, because they never came!" said the neighbors.

"You're looking uncommon well, Miss Hobson," said the Captain, planting his hands on his knees, and gazing at her with what he intended to be an amiable smile—mindful, from his late experience, that it might be necessary to do a little in the courting line before poping the question.

"I'm pretty well, I thank you," responded the lady, dryly.

"But ain't you a leetle lonesome at times?"

"Not I! I've got a dog and two cats—them as you see there; and mean to have a mockin' bird, soon's Jabez Long can git one for me. So I've got no reason to be lonesome."

"But cats and dogs ain't human critters, Miss Hobson," said Captain Tiller, insinuatingly.

"I reckon I don't need to be told that, Captain. They ain't human creeters, but something better, if anything."

"Oh, nothin' particular. Only I'd think it would be a melancholy thing for a woman to be alone with a lot of cats and dogs, as she's gettin' on into the downhill o' life, and"—he remembered Mrs. Tyron's expression—"and the valley o' the shadder. Cats and dogs can't lick away the wrinkles from —pleasure to the grave."

"Cap'n Tiller," said Miss Hobson, laying down on her lap the stocking she was knitting and looking at him with a flush on her cheek—"Cap'n Tiller, I'd like to know, once for all, what you mean?"

He saw that she was angry. He didn't know why—but felt it incumbent upon him to soothe and please her. So he drew his chair across the floor and sat down close beside her.

"Come, now, let's you and me have a friendly understanding together," said he, leering coaxingly into her face, "I'm sure I've got none but the softest kind o' feelings toward you, and I don't see why you shouldn't reciprocate." And to add point to his words, he put his left arm across the back of her chair, and with his right forefinger touched her delicately and playfully in the ribs.

"Get out o' this house!" she shrieked. "I'll let you know how to come round, sassing a lone woman, and in her own house, too! Here, Blinker, at him! ketch him!" and with Blinker at his heels, and Miss Hobson wrathfully following in his wake, the innocent-minded Captain Tiller made his exit from the house which he had entered with such amiable intentions.

Very dejectedly he walked home. It wasn't such a very easy thing, after all, to get a wife, and he felt for the present completely discouraged from any further attempt in that line. Moodily he sat down on the bottom of a tub—he rarely took a chair unless he was compelled—and mused upon his adverse fate. He felt humbled and forlorn.

"Please, sir, missis have sent you some supper," whined a very small voice behind him; and the Captain, turning, beheld Miss Billings' very small servant, bearing in her arms a very large tea-tray, laden with good things. There was a pitcher of steaming coffee, a plate of hot, buttered cakes, a nice steak with onions and other good things, all done to the point of perfection. Poor Captain Tiller's heart warmed at the sight, even in the midst of astonishment.

"You don't mean to say," he remarked to the very small servant—"you don't mean to say that she—that Miss Hester Billings sent me these 'ere fixins'?"

"Yes, sir, she did sir," responded the diminutive handmaiden, eagerly. "She said she couldn't abide to see even a dog livin' in sich a way, and eatin' sich victuals."

The Captain wasn't offended. He felt too much subdued for that now; and, besides, the sight of that supper tray would have overcome any feeling of rising wrath in his bosom. He was even sensible of a glow of gratitude, and under the influence of this emotion he took down from the mantelshelf a stuffed green parrot, glued to a seashell, and thrust it into the hands of the small maiden.

"There, my leetle gal," he said, "there's something for your trouble; and say to your missis, I'm highly obleeged for her kindness."

He emptied the contents of all the plates and dishes into crockery of his own, and without thinking of washing the former, sent them back to the owner, together with the small model of a fishing smack, wrought by himself in his hours of leisure while on shore. Miss Hester laughed when she beheld these things.

"Poor man," she said, "he hasn't got a bad heart after all; and it would be a pity to let him starve."

So, next day she sent him a daintily cooked dinner.

"Miss Hester," said Captain Tiller that afternoon, rather slyly addressing her as she sat at her window, sewing, "wouldn't

Resolved, That a State Convention be held in the hall of the House of Representatives, at the State House in the city of Providence, on THURSDAY, the 14th day of MARCH, 1872, at 11 o'clock, A. M., for the nomination of candidates for general officers, and for the election of delegates to a Convention to be held at Philadelphia on the 5th day of June, 1872, for the purpose of presenting candidates for the offices of President and Vice President of the United States.

Resolved, That the several towns and cities of the State be requested to send delegates to said Convention, equal to, and not exceeding, their representation in the General Assembly.

WILLIAM A. PIRCE, Chairman.
T. A. WHITMAN, Secretary.

In Mayor Hall's case Henry L. Clinton opened the prosecution. He referred to the Tweed charter, and said portions of it, at least, were got up under easy frauds on the treasury. He dwelt at length on the point that the mayor wilfully neglected to audit certain claims, and said no mayor ever enjoyed such extensive powers as Hall. He was really emperor of the city. He was the only man in the City Government who could have unearthed the frauds on the treasury.

The prospect of a Republican triumph in New Hampshire continues to improve. The Manchester Mirror says that the canvass of the State "gives us a majority of Republicans over all opposition, so that if all vote as they are all reported, and as they in most cases report themselves, we shall elect our candidate for Governor by a positive and handsome majority." The same paper is confident of six members in the Senate and a majority of forty in the House. The canvass in this State is usually a certain index of the final result. Let the Republicans bring out their fullest vote, and so teach the Democrats what they have to expect in the Fall.

In the United States Senate yesterday, Mr. Sumner said that he could not serve on the committee to investigate the French arms sales on account of the condition of his health. The naval appropriation bill, with amendments and a bill to reestablish a branch mint in New Orleans, were reported. A bill to renew the contract with the Globe for the publication of Congressional proceedings was passed. In the House a bill was reported providing for the publishing of congressional proceedings in a daily quarto form. A bill for a more effective system of quarantine in the southern and Gulf States were passed. The Chicago relief bill was reported.

The members of the General Assembly yesterday, were in too much of a hurry to get home, to stop for an adjournment. The efforts of the sheriff to keep them in their places, or rather to bring them back after they had left their places, proved unavailing; consequently the body after being left without a quorum adjourned over till today. We would suggest the propriety of employing a police force to keep the members from running away. Previous to the stampede there was an interesting debate had on the present status of our Savings Institutions. A proposition to invite the Japanese Embassy to Providence, was referred.

The Washington dispatch presented at the cabinet meeting yesterday afternoon the explanatory letter from Gladstone to Gen. Schenck, after the speech in Parliament to which exceptions had been taken. This letter, with other facts which have come to the knowledge of the Administration, has prompted a toning down of the original draft of a reply to the letter of Earl Granville. This Government insists on the right to refer its claims, direct and indirect, to the Geneva Board of Arbitrators, but disclaims any intention of acting in a manner offensive to Great Britain, and intimates that any reply will be considered and responded to. The reply was sent to New York last night and will be forwarded to London today.

Grant and his Enemies.

The National Republican has shown in one instance at least the animus which controls certain men in their opposition to the President. The case of Townsend is the case of thousands of others. They did not get the fat little office they wanted, consequently they cannot oppose Grant's re-election with too much vim:

"The New York Tribune, thinking it a good point against the President, copies with approbation an extract from a letter written by Mr. Geo. Alfred Townsend to the Chicago Tribune, containing a list of the newspaper editors who are Federal office-holders. There is nothing in it. Mr Townsend has been able to find barely thirty-six or thirty-seven editors in office all over the country, which, considering the fact that there are seven or eight thousand newspapers in the United States, is a very insignificant number.

While Mr. Townsend is studying up this question, and making an arithmetical calculation of the editors who have been successful applicants for positions under the General Government, let him also give us the number and the names of the gentlemen whose applications for office have been rejected by the Administration. If he is not too modest he might lead off with his own name.

When President Grant was inaugurated Mr. Townsend, it will be remembered, was one of his loudest and warmest eulogists. The Chicago Tribune of that date contains column upon column and page upon page of brilliant commendation from Mr. Townsend's pen. About the same time he wrote a modest application to the State Department asking for a four or five thousand dollar consulship, and entreated all his friends to indorse him as a great newspaper writer and worthy gentleman, which he undoubtedly is, and they were glad to do it. But someway Mr. Townsend was not made a consul, and singular to say he does not believe that President Grant is a statesman any more, and has been telling us so ever since. This is sad.

A Salt Lake letter says that ballot-stuffing and repeating in the palmiest days of Tammany never equalled that in the recent election in Utah, and that a committee of safety had been organized, urging the citizens to pay more taxes till the city treasurer renders an account of the funds.

The Efficiency of the Signal Service.

A Washington dispatch says an item of $61,000 for the Signal Service met with opposition from Gen. Farnsworth, but Mr. Dawes explained the reasons, and Mr. Coughlan of California narrated an instance of the utility of "Old Probabilities" prognostications in his State. It was telegraphed that a storm was approaching, whereupon a citizen who owned stock pastured on the low lands sent word to have them driven to higher ground. This was done, and the next morning there was eight feet of water where the stock had been feeding, the observations having thus saved one citizen from a loss of $30,000.

Mr. Dawes narrated an instance showing the commercial value of the signal service reports. There were one day in the harbor of Milwaukee twenty sloops and one steamer ready to sail. The captain of one of these sloops, who read the weather dispatch, was so impressed by it that he called the other captains together, and after consultation they decided not to sail. The steamer sailed and was wrecked in a terrible storm, but the sloops remained safely in port. Mr. Cox of New York and Mr. Sargent of California also bore such eloquent testimony to the value of the weather reports that the opposition was withdrawn and the appropriation made.

Washington.

Two members of the New York board of brokers are in Washington to obtain a reversal of the decision of the late Commissioner Delano, classifying all persons engaged in the business of negotiating, purchase, or the sales of stocks, as "bankers" within the the meaning of the act of June, 1864.

Ex-Governor Holden of North Carolina publishes in the Chronicle his card with drawing from editorial connection with that paper. While not stating the reasons for his action he improves the opportunity to declare his undiminished confidence in President Grant and belief in his reelection.

The House committee on public lands heard Thursday a delegation from Pittsburg, Pa., headed by ex-Congressman Morehead, asking an appropriation of $600,000 for the purchase of a sight for a new post-office and federal building in that city, and encouraged them to expect a favorable report.

The sub-committee on commerce of the House have reported to the full committee the important steamboat bill introduced very early in the session, and it will be reported in the House at an early day. Mr. Shellabarger, chairman of the committee, left today for several weeks' absence at his home in Ohio.

The Senate committee on the Pacific Railroad, Thursday, decided to report favorably the bill changing the name of the Texas Pacific Railroad to the Texas and South-Pacific, and permitting the company to construct their entire line from their eastern terminus only as a base of operations, providing they reach Sandiego in ten years. Construction bonds upon the entire property and land bonds upon the land grants, not otherwise mortgaged, are also authorized.

The steamer Fanny was coming down the Upper Mississippi, loaded with pig-lead. As she was going over a shoal place the pilot gave the signal to heave the lead. The only man forward was a green Irishman. "Why don't you heave the lead?" "Is it the lead, your honor? Where to?" "Overboard, you blockhead!" The Irishman snatched up one of the pigs of lead and threw it overboard; the mate, in endeavoring to prevent him, lost his balance and fell into the river. The captain running to the deck asked, "Why don't you heave the lead, and sing out how much water there is!" "The lead is heaved, your honor, and the mate's gone down to see how much water there is!"

ABOUT HOME.

—[illegible] is the sum required for putting Fort Adams in order.

—The less said about such weather the better. Certainly nothing can be said in its favor.

—We are happy to behold the Rev. [illegible] T. Brooks on the street once more as in former days.

—There are seventeen pensioners of the war of 1812 in this town, three of the Mexican war, and fifty-five of the late Rebellion.

—The whole number of births in this city in 1871 were 308, of these 189 were males and 119 females. The whole number of marriages was 132, and the whole number of deaths 142.

—There is need enough of cleaning the streets we all know, but it would be a little more agreeable for those owning stores on Thames street if the workmen would take a different day from this for doing the job. As it is the stirring up the fine dry dirt on a day when there is any wind causes such a cloud of dust as at times to make the street almost unbearable.

A NEW PAPER.—On Monday next, there will be issued in Boston, a large fifty-six column commercial newspaper, upon a very elaborate and complete plan, and embracing much editorial staff. Though announced as independent of all political bias, it is still to be devoted to liberal discussion of the political and social questions of the day. It is to be called The Boston Daily Globe and though larger than any of the Boston dailies, will be sold at the same price,—that is, four cents per copy.

James Godell has sold half his interest in the Real estate, corner of Thames and Prospect Hill street, to George F. Rhodes, for $4,475.

THE RE-DISTRICTING THE STATE.—The Weekly Visitor of Central Falls, finds slight objections to the new plan for dividing the State into Congressional districts. It says: "If the object of this re-districting is to fix things so that both of our Representatives to Congress can be taken from the city of Providence, we don't know as there should be much objection to the scheme, for then the whole delegation could be fixed up in the city in a quiet way, and those who live outside its blessed influence would have the privilege of voting for whoever they might select. If you could divide by making Providence one district, and the rest of the State the other, we would be glad to see it done, but we hope the other scheme will not pass." Correct.

SUNDAY SERVICES.—The Rev. Mr. Manchester, of the Cambridge Divinity School, will preach in the Unitarian church tomorrow.

The remarks of the local reporter to the effect that "work has been suspended for a couple of weeks, or until more favorable weather" do not prove to have had such inspiration as the author "quoted."

How long is a couple of weeks in somebody's almanac, or what constitutes favorable weather?

E. PLURIBUS.

[There can be no doubt about the truth of the statement of our reporter, for we are of the opinion that the work has been suspended at least a "couple of weeks. How much longer than a "couple of weeks" the suspension would last our reporter did not say. Neither will he now risk his reputation by attempting to predict the time of the resumption of activity. No one but a seer would attempt that. The ways of our officials are mysterious and past finding out. ED.]

CASUALTIES.—A young man by the name of Frank Watson was thrown from a horse last summer, receiving a severe sprain in the knee, which has caused him considerable pain ever since, but he has been able to go about until last Monday, when he slipped off a platform, wrenching his knee very badly, causing it to swell and become stiff. He was advised by Mrs. Simeon Perry, with whom he boarded, to visit Dr. Wm. Sweet for the purpose of having his knee examined by the celebrated bonesetter, and on Wednesday Mrs. Perry drove with the young man to the Doctor's in her carriage, and while getting out of the carriage at the Doctor's her foot slipped from the step of the carriage and she fell, striking her thigh upon the frozen ground with such force as to bruise the tendons very badly, and render her entirely helpless. Dr. Sweet has charge of both patients, who are doing as well as can be expected under the circumstances. The Doctor considers both cases as bad, if not worse than broken bones.

Shall we have Male or Female Clerks.

The question whether male or female clerks in stores are preferred by shopping ladies, has lately been agitated. I do not hesitate to say that the majority of ladies would much prefer the former.

There are reasons for this, apart from the natural and obvious preference which women entertain for a coat and vest, before a chignon and panier. Male clerks, as a general thing, confine their attention to business; in other words, "mind what they are about." Female clerks are too often taking an inventory of the way you do your hair; of the cut and trimming, and probable cost of your sacque and dress. No lady who shops much can be unaware of the coroner's inquest, favorable or otherwise, thus held over the dry goods on her back. When you add to this the momentous computations, whether her jewelry is bogus or real, and where she got that love of a bonnet, there is grave room for fear lest by a mistake, she should roll you up two yards of ribbon instead of three, involving a journey back to the disgust of yourself and your dressmaker; or, worse still, if the day be stormy, oblige you to coax your dear Charles to let you pin a sample on the lappel of his coat, and beg him to just stop a minute—there's a dear fellow—as he comes up town, and bring it to you. Of course, he gets talking with Tom Jones on politics, and forgets all about it, and only ejaculates, "pshaw!" when your horror-stricken dressmaker asks you for it.

That's how it is, although I get my ears boxed for saying it.

Mind you, I don't say that it is always so, no more than it is true that all male clerks attend strictly to the business in hand. Still it is true, that is really the fly in the ointment. In the words of the little hymn,

"It is their nature to."

Women always dissect each other the moment they meet and never leave so much as a hair pin unmeasured. So, as you can't change their nature, and as the instances are rare in which man, or woman either, can do two things correctly at the same moment, what are you going to do about it?

Having said this much, I am happy to add, that I have my favorite stores for shopping, where I am served by female clerks with a promptness, a politeness, an exactness and a dispatch, not to be exceeded by the best-trained male clerk in existence.

As to the silly girls and women who go shopping "for fun," and to make eyes, and chatter with clerks, there is no question how their preferences go on this question. We don't count their votes.

For myself, as my time is always limited, I desire dispatch, first and foremost, with an exactness involving no postscript to my shopping; and I would also prefer female clerks, if I could include this. In fact I am willing, in any case, to give my vote for the female clerks, so much do I desire that my own sex should be helped to help themselves.

Mansard Roofs.

A few years ago the monotonous style of roof used in our architecture was agreeably varied by the introduction of what is known as the Mansard roof, sometimes called the French attic. The splendid architectural piles in Paris received some of their best graces of expression from the handsome sky-lines the Mansard roof gave them, and almost every American traveling abroad wondered why so graceful a roof could not be adopted in our American cities, where the large buildings terminated with an abrupt, sharp, and unpicturesque sky-line. The Mansard roof after a time was introduced, and its peculiar beauty soon made it very popular. But like all fashions which become the rage, and which are adopted by the people imitatively, without perception of the principle that governs them, the French attic has become with us an architectural infliction. The Mansard roof was designed for tall buildings. Its special purpose is to break the monotony of a massive pile and to reduce in appearance its real height. A structure that would seem awkwardly tall, with an unvaried succession of stories, has not only, by means of the Mansard roof, a more graceful caption, but attains more agreeable proportions. The specific purposes of this roof being recognized, the absurdity of its use in small buildings becomes at once apparent. Our builders, however, seem to lack all power of perception, and to have reduced the art of architecture to indiscriminate imitations. Everywhere now the Mansard roof confronts us. Every new cottage on the roadside, new cheap villas in those extemporized villages that line our Metropolitan railways, new public buildings of every sort and degree, railroad stations all over the country—everything of the kind now, no matter if only a story high, must have its Mansard roof, with entire disregard of fitness or propriety. It is exasperating to see a good idea thus dragged to absurd and ignoble uses. As we at first hailed with pleasure the appearance of the Mansard roof, we shall now look with hope for signs that will indicate the termination of its career. And yet whatever may follow, it will have to undergo the same experience. It is our natural way to try and appropriate every big thing for every little purpose. [Appleton's Journal.

Love of Farming.

Farming can be made a delight; it is to many. And who are they that like farming? They are the good farmers. The pleasure then does not consist in bad farming. Who does not like to work land when there is a dark, deep, rich soil? In such a case there is an ease and mellowness and fragrance from the ground that at once attaches us. Such a soil is the next thing to having life; indeed we associate life with it. What a mass of dark green grass covers it in the fall, when other land is faded and barren. The fall wheat also is next to another mat. In the summer you have the corn rising like little masts, stopping you for a look. There is not a poor piece of grain on such land. You are safe then. Is not this an encouragement? Is not this a decided stimulant to know that 70 to 80 bushels of corn per acre are growing, and other products of the farm in proportion? Such land works easy, works early, works when other land will not admit it, for it is drained and subsoiled. In a drouth it is still springy, still possessed of life and moisture. Your cattle are sleek, and healthy, and profitable. It is a pleasure always to look at them; so those sheep, kept in such order and with such wool; and the young stock so thrifty—in winter as well as in summer. And when you feed, the hay you find that green and fragrant, with the summer heads of clover still there to greet you.

Indeed no such treaty could be negotiated, unless equal commercial privileges were granted to other nations with whom we have treaty stipulations that they shall be placed on the same footing as the most favored nations.

SHOCKING DISASTER AT FRANKFORT GERMANY.

THE PUBLIC DEBT.

A Reduction of Twelve Millions in February.

WASHINGTON, March 1.

Manufactures in Ohio are assuming immense proportions. The Cleveland Iron Works are rivaling Pennsylvania, and various factories throughout the State are increasing their facilities for doing business as well as the number of men employed. Not only the West sends orders to Ohio, but the far East acknowledges the superiority of the Buckeye State. The Japanese Government has given large orders for Cincinnati woodworking machines to make shingles, laths, and other articles.

Of Judge Davis, the candidate of the National Labor Reform party, the St. Louis Democrat says:

"Of all men known to American public life, Judge Davis has the largest private fortune, representing the smallest honest effort. If you want to know where his millions came from, ask the poor farmer of Illinois, whom the panic of 1847 found in debt and distress; ascertain how the necessities of the poor of that time were the opportunities of Judge David Davis, and how the title deeds to his large estates were signed in suffering and sealed in sorrow. He was one of the few, a knowledge of whom would have enabled Shakspeare to give us an Anglo Saxon Shylock, and deprived the tribe Israel of dramatic immortality. In all he did, he doubtless did no wrong; we have never heard his personal honor impeached, or his private character brought into question. He simply hung out three golden balls when times were hard and money scarce; and when tired of pawnbroking he took [illegible] his sign and retired from business to [illegible] the [illegible] record of the wicked world which [illegible] made him rich and others poor."

Aggravated Indigestion.

Persons who are predisposed to dyspepsia, find their sufferings from this cause greatly aggravated by damp weather, easterly winds, and sudden changes from a mild to a chilling atmosphere. In the spring, therefore, the pangs of indigestion are seriously augmented by the atmospheric variations peculiar to the season, and it is incumbent upon all who desire to pass through the ordeal of its cold mists and insalubrious gales with easy stomachs and untormented by the indescribable torments which accompany dyspepsia, to tone and strengthen the digestive organs with a healthful and effective vegetable invigorant; and no one at all familiar with the medical record of the age, can question for one moment that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the Tonic best adapted to this purpose.

The credentials of the Great Restorative are unequalled in number and character by those of any other advertised medicine in the world. If ever there was a preparation to rank as a National Remedy, this wonderful specific has a fair claim to the title. For a period of twenty years it has literally been the Champion Tonic and Alterative on this side of the Atlantic. In popularity it has never been approached by any of its would-be competitors, and its annual sales are so far in advance of those of any other medicine of its class, that comparisons would be ridiculous. One of two conclusions is inevitable. Either the American people are deficient in common sense, and incapable of rational discrimination, or Hostetter's Bitters is the best preventive remedy for indigestion, fever and ague, bilious remittent fever, constipation, rheumatism, nervous complaints, and all maladies of an epidemic or endemic type. The reader will judge for himself which of the two conclusions is most consistent with fact and reason.

Yeas and Neighs.—If horses could make themselves understood in human language, they would signify by a universal "Yea," their assent to the statement that the MUSTANG LINIMENT is the best remedy extant for all these external ailments, and by a most emphatic "Neigh!" show their displeasure at every attempt to use any other preparation in its stead. Ever since its introduction at St. Louis, at the close of the Mexican War, in 1849, it has proved a signal blessing to horse and man—curing, with absolute certainty and wonderful despatch, such equine diseases as spavin, ringbone, poll evil, scratches, hoofail, &c., and relieving and finally removing the painful affections which attack the muscles, sinews and external glands of human beings.—It is a fact beyond contradiction that for all injuries or complaints of man or quadrupeds to which an external remedy is applicable, the MUSTANG LINIMENT is preferable to every other. 126-n&l

Why do many people in the Spring of the year feel weary, weak, languor of body and mind, which if not removed, often results in dangerous maladies, a morbid sensation, &c.

It is because nature at this season of the year is undergoing a great change. She commences to germinate, to generate, to propagate, to build, to renovate; this great law is palpable in all the animal creation, hence the necessity of a counter action.

The aged are more susceptible of nature's changes than the young, because the power of repelling disease is not so great, consequently requiring more vigilance.

Those past the meridian of life, at all seasons of the year, are greatly benefitted by taking a few bottles of the Quaker Bitters, it produces new life, energy, and consequently happiness.

you like to hev your fence palings fixed up a bit? I see they are broken through.

"Why, it would be a convenience to have them palings mended," she admitted.

Whereupon Captain Seth set to work, and with hammer and nails manfully repaired the fence.

"Just call on me whenever you're in need of sich jobs," he remarked, amiably, when it was completed.

"And I'll do your cooking for you while you are ashore, Captain," responded the gratified Miss Billings.

A sudden light flashed upon the mind of Captain Seth. Why had he never thought of this before?

"Miss Hester," he said, "you don't mean to say you'll forgive Pickle for worrying your Pink?"

"I'll send him away!" said the Captain, magnanimously.

"La! what an idea, Captain! Oh, no! let the critter alone. I dare say they'll yet be friends, after a while. It's all our duties to be friendly to one another, you know!"

"To be sure!" acquiesced the Captain, heartily. "Wherefore, it follers that you and me ought to be friends, as well as Pickle and Pink.

"I'm sure I've no wish to be otherwise with anybody," said Miss Hester, looking down at her knitting.

"Then," said the Captain, slowly, and somewhat difficultly, "mebbe you would not object to——"

"To what, Captain?"

"To enter into kinder partnership, you see—you and me together—to help one another."

"I'm willin' to do what I can to help you and my feller creaters, I hope and believe," responded Miss Billings, piously. "It's my duty when I see a forlorn body in need of help, to do what I can to make 'em comfortable."

After this, very few words were necessary and an hour subsequent Captain Seth Tiller was seen with a beaming countenance entering the gate of Parson Dempster's yard; and on the following day the twain—that is, Captain Seth Tiller and Miss Hester Billings—were made one.

That evening, as he sat at a luxurious supper with his wife, to the great admiration of the small handmaiden, and the apparent bewilderment of Pickle and Pink, the following note was left for him:

"CAPTAIN TILLER:—I've been considerin' of what you said, and as second thoughts is wisest, hev come to the conclusion that it will be a comfort to hev a hand to help me down into the valley of the shadder.

"Darn the valley of the shadder!" exclaimed Captain Tiller, throwing aside the note, and betaking himself anew to his oysters.

The tempting bivalves were hardly disposed of, when a knock at the door heralded a voice, which inquired:

"Cap'n Tiller to hum?"

"Yes'm," responded the small handmaiden, promptly.

"Then give him this," said the hard voice; and a bit of paper folded triangularly, was thrust into the girl's hand, whilst hasty steps were heard retreating.

The paper contained these mysterious words in pencil:

"If Captain Tiller will step round at Miss C. Hobson's—and hopes he will excuse Blisker, which she knows and believes his intentions were not rude to her, and a mistake on C. H.'s part—I will be pleased to see him. C. H."

"Darn'd if I go!" muttered Captain Tiller, lighting up.

"Humph!" said Mrs. Seth Tiller, as she sat thinking, rather moodily.

"You see," suggested her spouse, deprecatingly, "I hadn't an idea then that you'd hev me."

"Mrs. Tiller was a sensible woman, and she accepted the explanation without more ado.

"Please, sir," said the small maid, with very big eyes, "here's a boy come and brought another letter."

"Let's see," said Mrs. Seth, exercising her matrimonial privilege. And she read aloud the following, written on pink tinted paper, and sealed in an embossed envelope:

"DEAR CAPTAIN TILLER:—Been expecting you round to-day. Hope no offence; as you know when a woman's took by surprise she's obliged to say what she don't always mean. I'm to home this evening, from seven to ten.

Truly yours, MELISSA FULLER."

"Well," said the Captain, running his fingers through his hair; "if that doesn't beat all! Rum critters, them women!"

"And bold enough, some of 'em," joined in Mrs. Tiller, "to make proposals to a married man!

"Why you see, they don't know yet that I am married."

"Then best let 'em know it at once. Suppose you accept of all their invitations right away, and take me along by way of explanation you know."

The Captain chuckled with an inward appreciation of his bride's cleverness and wit. He took her advice and the pair made the round of bridal calls, much to their own satisfaction, if not to that of the recipients thereof.

Mrs. Tyron sighed. Widow Fuller laughed—somewhat hysterically, it must be confessed—and Miss Hobson talked of a suit for breach of promise. Not one of the three ever forgave him.

"PATENT PAPERED WOOD HANGINGS."

Parties Decorating their Walls and Ceilings should carefully examine the merits of the WOOD HANGINGS and not accept the unfavorable reports of interested parties. Instead of throwing away your white doors or having them grained or putting in solid hard wood, you can have them covered with Wood Hangings, putting in solid mouldings, saving a great expense.

DEAR SIR:—Our Union Bank decorated their banking rooms with your Wood Hangings two years ago, which has been much admired. The work stands well, no showing of its giving out in any way. Hope you are successful in introducing the same.

Very truly,
JAMES Y. SMITH, President.

ERIE RAILWAY, JOHN S. DUNLAP, N. England Agent. 194 Washington Street. Boston, June 24, 1870.

CHARLES W. SPURR, Esq.,

DEAR SIR:—I have your favor of the 1st, referring to your Wood Hangings. About a year since I had it used in the dining room and halls of my house, and to date I am perfectly satisfied with it in every particular.

Very truly,
JOHN S. DUNLAP.

SELWYN'S THEATRE, MANAGER'S OFFICE, Boston, May 8th, 1870.

CHAS. W. SPURR,

SIR:—I wish to say that your Wood Hangings have been on the walls of the Vestibule of this Theatre since August, 1868, and have proved entirely satisfactory. As the walls were plastered, and the Vestibule very much exposed to the varied changes of the weather, there were serious doubts of the permanency of this style of decoration, but those doubts have been entirely removed. And the truth of this is manifest to the many who come to see and judge for themselves, and who admire its beauty and novelty exceedingly.

I remain yours truly,
JOHN H. SELWYN.

TRANSCRIPT OFFICE, Boston, May 10, 1870.

CHAS. W. SPURR Esq.,

DEAR SIR:—The Wood Hangings you put upon my house, No. 14 Montgomery Street, has stood the test of two years' use, to the entire satisfaction of the family. It is as firm on the wall as the day you left it. The heat or moisture has not caused the wood to peel in a single spot, and I see no reason why it will not remain so for years. I can cheerfully recommend its use to all, in preference to paper in a dining room.

Respectfully and truly yours,
H. W. DUTTON.

These Wood Hangings are manufactured and for sale at No. 522 Harrison Avenue, Boston. Persons desiring to see these Hangings already, or will be referred to parties in Newport by inquiring at the DAILY NEWS OFFICE.

DOCTOR PIERCE'S

Golden Medical Discovery.

CURES DISEASES OF THE

THROAT, LUNGS, LIVER & BLOOD

In the wonderful medicine to which the afflicted are above pointed for relief, the discoverer believes he has combined in harmony more of Nature's most sovereign curative properties, which God has instilled into the vegetable kingdom for healing the sick, than were ever before combined in one medicine. The evidence of this fact is found in the great variety of most obstinate diseases which it has been found to conquer. In the cure of Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, and the early stages of Consumption, it has astonished the medical faculty, and eminent physicians pronounce it the greatest medical discovery of the age. While it cures the severest Coughs, it strengthens the system and purifies the blood. By its great and thorough blood purifying properties, it cures all Humors, from the worst Scrofula to a common Blotch, Pimple, or Eruption. Mercurial disease, Mineral Poisons, and their effects, are eradicated, and vigorous health and a sound constitution established. Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all the numerous diseases caused by bad blood, are conquered by this powerful purifying and invigorating medicine.

If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have sallow color of skin or yellowish brown spots on face or body, frequent headache or dizziness, bad taste in mouth, internal heat or chills alternated with hot flashes, low spirits, and gloomy forebodings, irregular appetite, and tongue coated, you are suffering from Torpid Liver or "Biliousness." In many cases of "Liver Complaint" only part of these symptoms are experienced. As a remedy for all such cases Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has no equal, as it effects perfect cures, leaving the liver strong and healthy. For the cure of Habitual Constipation of the bowels it is a never failing remedy, and those who have used it for this purpose are loud in its praise.

The proprietor offers $1,000 reward for a medicine that will equal it for the cure of all the diseases for which it is recommended.

MILLIONS Bear Testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects.
They are not a vile Fancy Drink, Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and A LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.
They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing, also, the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver, and all the Visceral Organs.
FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or at the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters have no equal.
For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.
DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia.
They invigorate the Stomach and stimulate the torpid Liver and Bowels, which render them of unequalled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.
FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-Worms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effects.
Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.
Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. Says a distinguished physiologist, there is scarcely an individual upon the face of the earth whose body is exempt from the presence of worms. It is not upon the healthy elements of the body that worms exist, but upon the diseased humors and slimy deposits that breed these living monsters of disease. No System of Medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.
